349 Floor Lamp by Le Klint

Designed by Aage Petersen in 1946, the 349 floor lamp is an elegant yet practical light that uses beautiful lines and astounding function. Like the rest of Le Klint's lights, the 349 floor light has a delicate hand-folded lampshade that is made of either plastic foil or paper. The base and stand of the floor lamp is made from brass with black and brass colours, producing a tasteful and refined floor light.

The stand is extendable with a total height going from 113 to 158 cm. The arm is also adjustable along with a lampshade that can be tilted, letting you angle and direct the light wherever you need. This makes the 349 floor lamp ideal as a reading light but also as an atmospheric light to produce a warm incandescence. Its timeless design makes this floor lamp suitable for both home and commercial interiors and will please the eye perfectly in lounge or reception rooms.
